INTRODUCTION TO THE SHOPPING ADVERTISING FRAMEWORK

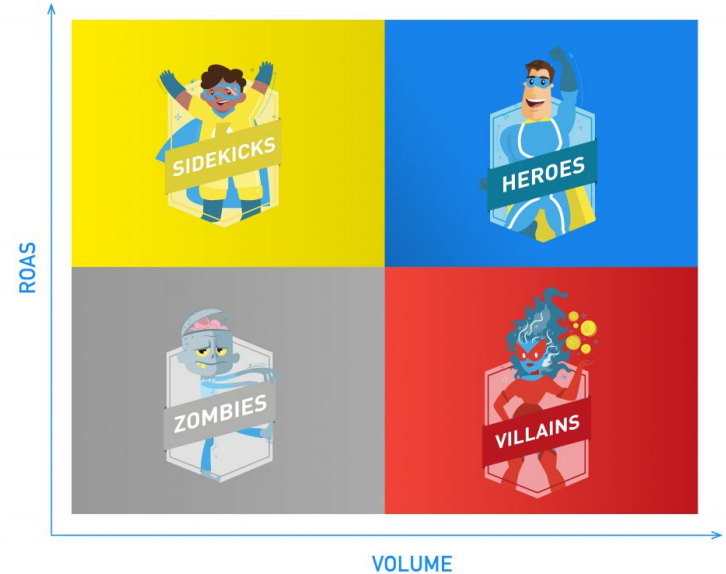

GOOGLE CSS: DON'T OVERPAY FOR SHOPPING ADS

WHY YOU SHOULD SEGMENT YOUR PRODUCTS USING LABELIZER

- Over 60% of your products don't show in Google Ads
(Zombies)
- 50% of the costs go to underperforming products
(Villains)
- Less than 10% of your products make 80% of the revenue

Our main challenge

Managing 1,000,000 products to build efficient Google Ads campaigns.

How do we...

- 1 ...build an effective shopping campaign structure?
- 2 ...optimize the product feed for a high amount of products

But first, let's get the basics right

Building a good foundation to work with.

- ✓ The import feed was split into smaller feeds
- ✓ Deleting irrelevant products & categories

Building a good foundation to work with.

- ✓ The import feed was split into smaller feeds
- ✓ Deleting irrelevant products & categories

But first, let's get the basics right

From 1,000,000 million products to +/- 700,000 products

- ✓ The algorithm became very happy with less products, but.....
- ✓ Still way too many books to build effective shopping/pMax structure

So, we created an additional split in the campaigns

Labelizer campaigns based on the genre of each book in combination with 4 boost campaigns

Learnings after implementing the structure

The perfect structure doesn't exist, you have to keep optimising

What we've optimized after implementing:

- ✓ "Zombies without clicks" → Extra Boost Campaign

3.NL-PM-SH-ZombiesWithoutClicks

- ✓ Combine Heroes & Sidekicks, to get enough conversion volume (sometimes even with zombies)

3.NL-PM-SH-Boeken-Body&Mind-Labelizer-Heroes&Sidekicks

- ✓ Villains to Standard Shopping → To get full control on search terms

- ✓ Extra Google Ads account for English books with the same labelizer strategy → Due to campaign limits from Google (Max. 100)

Next steps for the campaigns

How are we going to give the next boost to the campaigns?

WE WANT MORE VOLUME!
PRODUCT CONTENT OPTIMIZATION

Now there is AI to help you

WHY CONTENT OPTIMIZATION IS HARD

Interviews with retail advertisers showed that they struggle with optimizing product content.

Time

Optimizing product content can take a lot of time, which advertisers don't have or prioritize.

Knowledge

Incomplete product feeds.
Not enough knowledge on what & how to optimize.

Control

Advertisers want to stay in control over product optimizations.

✗ ALSO NOT A LOT OF FUN... 😭
